The Heavy-Duty Workbench You've Been Looking For

When you need a sturdy workbench for a big job, look no further than Ranger. This 2-drawer unit is a couple feet shorter than the RWB-2S, so if your space is too tight for the full, 14' workbench, this "smaller" bench should do the trick. Still, for many shop owners and garage enthusiasts, 12' is more than enough, as it accommodates multiple operators at the same work station. The 59" width lets you hammer, wrench and assemble what you need to while offering plenty of room for tools, parts, nuts, bolts, etc. off to the side.

Two lockable drawers keep smaller items organized and safe overnight or when not in use. Our 5/32" HD rolled edge steel construction goes a long toward ensuring the safety and security of your tools. Both drawers fully extend on smooth ball bearing slides, which require absolutely minimum attention and maintenance for the years and generations we hope this lift stays in your shop or family. A single wide shelf is positioned to let you keep larger objects stowed conveniently near your feet.
